

The human being,
at once
primitive and refined, who because of a little nuance in the evolution – by pure chance, completely came to put his mark on the earth's surface.

As part of the cosmos,
we are a part of this explosion, the hugely destructive movement, which our world took as its starting point.
Chaos is life, chaos is movement.

The human being is chaos, the destructive potential lies within us and chaos is the direction of our movement.

We move, like electrons in iron, to a magnet in the same direction, as the continuation of the movement, which was started long ago, when “The Big Bang” started the infinite enlargement process of the universe.
